SPORTS WEEK

To focus public attention on the fact that "It Pays To Play," to point out to all and sundry that the fun in games and outdoor recreations is good for the body, good for the mind and good for the soul—that is the purpose of Canadian Sports Week.

For nine years now the week of May 24 (this year May 24 to 25) has been nationally recognized as Sports Week. Probably no other week has had such speedy and practical progress as the seven-day period, set aside for promulgating the benefits of healthful play. The public response to the concentrated effort has increased annually.

Press, pulpit and the air-ways will cooperate in the movement. In past years the newspaper world has contributed greatly to making the "week" one of Dominion-wide interest; special airways have been procured on such subjects as "The Value of Sports from the Moral Standpoint," etc.; radio stations have broadcast series of sports talks and have carried sport announcements.

As a nation, we pride ourselves on our legacy of "Fair Play," handed down to us from our British ancestors. In our national life, the spirit of true sportsmanship is an essential requisite if we are to prosper and become a nation among nations.

John (Fairworth) pays a real tribute to sport when he writes: "Sport which will leave the flag of idealism flying is perhaps the most saving grace in this world at the moment, with the return of the country's purchasing power, this year, the recreation should have been given a greater interest in this event."

THOUGHT TWIN WAS DOUBLE-HEADED

A very humorous incident occurred in the Speke Hall during the Musical Festival.

Ted Cohen was adjudicating the Bill Bennett, whose number was 145, had said his piece. Mr. Cohen called him back to be wondered at, as the place and waited for the sign to begin. The adjudicator scrutinized the closely and exclaimed: "I called 144."

The boy stood his ground, much to the amusement of the audience. Finally Rev. R. J. Pierce came to the rescue and explained that the boys were the same and that the boys were the same.

Mr. Cohen evidently thought that Bill was double-headed on him. This is not to be wondered at, as the brothers are as much alike as two peas.

THE FEMINE TOUCH

On Saturday morning a friend who was carrying a window shade under his arm.

When the idea was, and the bachelor then went into the following explanation: "You can always tell when there is a woman around a house by the appearance of the windows."

THE CRISIS IN COTTON

Babson Finds New England In Arms Against Processing Taxes

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 8.—I was surprised to find on my return home how discouraged people are in New England. The crisis in cotton has reached a point where many sections, he cannot buy the products of his own labor. The typical basic trouble with cotton—underconsumption not overproduction.

CAN SCARCITY CREATE PLENTY?

It is a different story also with the big growers and exporters of the South. Warehousemen are bulging with cotton since have been shipped abroad. The tariff on raw cotton has kept the American price of cotton far above the world price.

TERIBLE INDUSTRY IN

Mill operators are blaming their current troubles on the cotton processing tax. They say it is a serious difficulty in the cotton textile industry.

Items of Interest From Spirit River

REMARKS FOLLOWING THE MUSIC FESTIVAL

In connection with the Grande Prairie Music Festival, just concluded one week ago, I felt a great glow of pride and satisfaction in the various successes that were credited to the school children from Spirit River and the other schools of the district.

It was an education in itself to see and listen to the children in the progress of the various tests as they were concluded at Grande Prairie, day by day, and to hear all sides the questions: "How did the kiddies make out in the dancing?" "What was the outcome of the singing?" "What was the classification of the play?" and so forth, coming from supporters and admirers of the contestants.

It was a pleasure to see the children through hard work and other things, and to see them in the progress of the various tests as they were concluded at Grande Prairie, day by day, and to hear all sides the questions: "How did the kiddies make out in the dancing?" "What was the outcome of the singing?" "What was the classification of the play?" and so forth, coming from supporters and admirers of the contestants.

We all heartily congratulate the children on their success, both from the Spirit River school, White Mountain school, and other schools in the district.

So do all the congratulations go out to the children, by name, by name, by name. We all give thanks and congratulations to the Rev. A. Thorpe, Miss H. A. Duff, Miss K. Keay, and to the indefatigable workers, Miss Henderson, for their splendid contribution to the festival.

A movement is afoot to show our appreciation to the winners in a public manner in a concrete form at a very early date. So, children, keep up the good work. Long live the festival, and we will show you how we appreciate your efforts before so many eyes.

HAZELMERE NEWS

HAZELMERE, May 13.—Mrs. R. E. Campbell and little Mary are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dalehouse.

The Rio Grande W. L. met at the home of Mrs. J. M. Walker for the meeting—at least some of them did. Owing to a misunderstanding some of the members thought the meeting had been postponed, which wasn't the case. However, eight or nine turned up and we spent a very pleasant afternoon. Next meeting will be at Mrs. Lock.

There has been an spring work started out here yet. Seems as if this year is the best of 1935, when seeding started about May 28. We're hoping the sun soon takes a notion to shine and warm things up a bit.

FILTRATION

A complete and efficient filtration system is at work in every normal human body. The kidneys contain several thousand filtration units through which the blood flows in order that waste materials may be filtered out and any excess of one or other chemical removed so as to maintain the proper chemical balance of the body.

These filtration units may be disorganized by changes which occur in form, seen in children and young adults, is due to an infection (germs causing an inflammation). It is commonly seen following an attack of tonsillitis or scarlet fever.

Acute nephritis is recognized by the pallor of the patient with puffiness of the face and ankles. An examination of the urine shows that the kidneys are not able to do their work, and so waste material and an excess of fluid collect in the body. Acute cases usually recover under proper treatment. The most important item in treatment is rest in bed until the infection has cleared up entirely. Some cases pass into chronic nephritis.

Chronic nephritis in early adult life is usually the result of an acute nephritis. After that age it is a part of a general change which includes the hardening of the smaller arteries of the urine shows that the kidneys of the disease is checked and the patient may live for many years. The earlier the disease is detected the more can treatment accomplish. Chronic conditions steal up on the victim and their presence is at first unsuspected. A periodic health examination is desirable because it reveals the presence of unsuspected chronic disease, including nephritis.

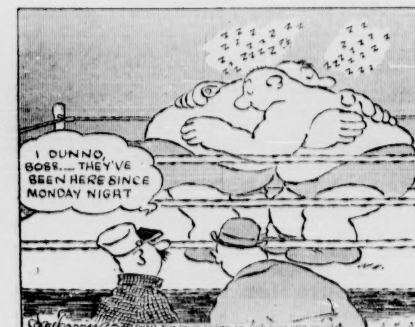

An accurate diagnosis of the particular form of the disease present must be made in order to institute proper treatment. Self-medication is, to say the least, highly dangerous. Plain simple foods, the avoidance of any excess in food or drink, the use of plenty of water, a quiet life with freedom from worry are essential in the treatment.

From the point of view of prevention it is known that after forty, most people eat too much, put on weight and over-work their kidneys in the effort to get rid of waste materials. Questions concerning health, that are addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

"Consolation" Is Changed Into "Jamboree"

St. Joseph's school was the scene of a happy party last Friday night. The happy evening was originally intended to be a "consolation" to the Berchmans boys, who lost out to the Junior

The evening opened with an address by Mr. Francisco Adam, J.P., of Hythe, who recounted his early experiences in this country, especially that of camping at Lake Kaskatchewan fifty years ago on Sunday, May 12. He also imparted some very valuable and practical advice on "scholarship" to the boys and girls present.

A delightful concert followed, in which Miss Marjorie Lanctot and Mr. Fred Hickman sang solos and duets. Lanctot started and pleased the assembly with selections on the accordion and demonstrations of beautiful control instrumental in successful musical production.

An exciting interlude followed in which things didn't go so well and the musician's victim had to hurriedly depart for first aid to the injured. The properties were not sold as Gibraltar. Then the junior choir rendered some of their choicest numbers, after which the big event of the evening took place, to settle for all time the thorny point that had been dividing friends and relatives for the last several days.

The question being: "Resolved that the Junior C. W. L. float, British Empire, was victorious over the Berchmans boys' 'Strong as Gibraltar and Why?' due to the boys' failure to properly 'use and face the elements of the float, especially Gibraltar itself."

On the affirmative were Jack Spier (leader), assisted by Lloyd Miller and Joyce Tofer. The negative was James Macdonald, assisted by Elizabeth Major Bourque and Cecilia Prevost.

Due to the masterful handling of his case by Leader Jim Miller and the excellent group of his two assistants on the principles of aesthetics, art, geography and human nature, it was a clear victory for the Berchmans side. The debate was over—the audience started the debate all over again and the controversy had to be settled by the chairman—who did so—The Berchmans.

Mezzy, Alt and Croken represented the school board and congratulated the girls and teachers on their good work and preparation for the recent festival. The ice cream festival, provided by the Junior C. W. L., followed and the evening closed after some interesting music and serenading of some alleged "very good fellows" of both genders.

Wapiti Hill has over one hundred acres plowed and still going strong. The Smith brothers are tearing everything up. Some fourteen head of horses on the go.

Another week or ten days and we'll have most of the crops in here. The weather today unfortunately proved very threatening and spoilt the attendance at A. K. Watts' sale, which has been postponed until June 12.

The dance held this evening at A. K. Watts was not as large as usual, due to the same weather, but quite a crowd attended and had a hilarious time. Good food, lots of room, and last—but not least—Penson's orchestra. Everyone is aware of the fact that many orchards are producing, but Jack Penson's stays; and no wonder, they sure produce the goods and make everyone dance. Ever I feel the urge and have to stumble around the floor in a vain effort to dance. Mel Rodacher entertained with songs, accompanying himself on the banjo. Jack and Mel gave an imitation of the bagpipes. Mr. and Mrs. Watts proved genial host and hostess. A. K. supplying various kinds of refreshments. Mrs. A. K. supplying coffee, cake and sandwiches—all for 75 cents. You people must get the habit as we understand A. K. Watts is putting on more of these dances. Jump in your car, load it up with friends and get a view, also, of the finest country in the North—Along the Wapiti.

Ed Woods, a busy brusher, assisted by Mrs. Ed Woods, C. Sudeland has finished plowing on Geo. Aherne's place. Tom Brumpton says it is still "hunks" wet in spots.

Seen and Heard at the Dance. Len Gibbons offering a big letter for more couples in a square. Mr. Lewis, Sr., of the Prairie, housing it down in grand style. J. B. Goyne flashing a big roll. Macdonald trying to sing.

Election Not Before End June Thinks Allen

dates clashing that existed some time ago.

"The boundaries of the Grande Prairie constituency will be unchanged and the population will be the greatest of any single member constituency in the province."

"While there was a somewhat lengthy debate on the question of redistribution in the last days of the session, no action was taken and it is doubtful if it would have been justified at that late date."

"The redistribution committee which was set up two years ago drew up three maps dividing the province into 28, 30 and 32 seats, respectively, but the committee made no recommendation as to what action should be taken."

"On the affirmative were Jack Spier (leader), assisted by Lloyd Miller and Joyce Tofer. The negative was James Macdonald, assisted by Elizabeth Major Bourque and Cecilia Prevost."

"On the present basis Grande Prairie is undoubtedly entitled to another seat, but there could be no justification for increasing the total number, and there is a very strong possibility of the house not to attempt a general redistribution at this late date."

"My own feeling has always been that we could very well get on with a considerable reduction in membership and all that was necessary in the Peace River was a readjustment of constituency of 45,000, which he had at the last census might be a little more equally divided among the interesting parts."

"What about Social Credit?" is the next question raised. Well, my own opinion is that when Mr. Aherne, the politico-evangelist school teacher of Calgary first began to discuss the theme of Social Credit and then to elaborate them, he did so with about some idea that many another religious leader has discussed such questions as the "High Cost of Government" and "Social Credit."

Hard times made the misty possibilities of Social Credit an attractive subject and Mr. Aherne started starting conclusions as to what might be done in the economic field. Now he is in the position of the man who had done his best and he is like that gentleman, he can't let go.

"Twenty-Five Dollars a Month to give to the poor," was the subject of Mr. Aherne's speech. He said it is impossible to hurt anyone's feelings by telling them that they will get what they want if it is not and regardless of whatever else is the case."

The only qualification that is necessary in order to become an Aherneist is to believe, mainly, in the twenty-five dollars. "It can be done," says Mr. Aherne, "if you will give help to the poor. If you don't listen to those who dare criticize it, and don't do too much thinking."

For those who ask such foolish questions as how it will raise the price of wheat or livestock, or any of that great bulk of our production which is sold outside the province in order to provide the funds for "social dividends," the only answer is: "You haven't studied Social Credit; you don't understand it."
